

DESIGN. SUSTAIN. TRANSFORM

LET'S DESIGN A CAMPUS THAT DOESN'T JUST TEACH SUSTAINABILITY
BUT ACTUALLY LIVES IT.

About Nanavu

NANAVU is a national-level Sustainable Conclave bringing together education, industry, research, practice, and policy to turn sustainability into real-world action. Aligned with Kerala's carbon-neutral vision and India's Net Zero 2070 goal, NANAVU explores practical, affordable, and accessible sustainable construction through discussions, innovation, and collaboration.

About Sustainability Council - TKMCE

The Campus Sustainability Council (CSC), TKMCE Kollam, is a cross-disciplinary body of faculty, students, and industry experts working to embed sustainability into campus learning, practices, and systems. Through student engagement, green campus initiatives, experiential learning, innovation, research, and industry collaboration, the CSC aims to nurture responsible citizens who think, practise, and carry sustainability forward.

About Naamearth

Naamearth empowers the next generation of architects, engineers, educators, researchers, and practitioners to rethink how we design and build. Through experiential learning, research, workshops, and collaboration, it bridges knowledge and practice, equipping professionals to embrace sustainable technologies and contribute to a more regenerative built environment.

NAVAVU is a sustainability-focused conclave that brings together students, architects, engineers, industry professionals, organisations, and sustainability practitioners to explore the future of the built environment. The conclave aims to move beyond sustainability as a theoretical concept by creating a platform for knowledge exchange, practical learning, innovation, and collaboration in sustainable construction.
